

Clothing dominoes

How to play

The domino pieces from the middle of the book show different items of clothing. Cut them out and share them between you. Then take turns at placing them so they match together, as in the picture.

Games that involve matching are a regular pre-school activity. Give your child a head start by playing this game and help them learn the names of familiar items too.

TIP: As you place each domino, talk about what you can see and about what each player is looking for when it's their turn. This stimulates conversation and helps your child. You can also make your own sets, using different themes. Keep them handy, so you always have something to do while you're waiting.
